

ONE OF THE BIG GUNS IN THE MOVIES

CHARLES CHAPLIN

Chas. Chaplin, as he looks in real life and as he appears in his comedy, "The Champion."

Charley Chaplin is one of the most favorite stars in the moving picture game today. Since the Chaplin funny pictures started appearing on the screen the young man has been a huge hit. He has appeared in a great many well written and staged comedies, among them "The Champion," "By the Sea" and "The Jitney Elopement."

His "By the Sea" has especially been a laugh producer. There are enough roars in that picture to sink a fleet of battleships, as a Chaplin lover puts it.

Chaplin, with his big feet performing their usual mirth provoking perambulations, wanders down to the sea shore. There is some wind blowing, so Chaplin anchors his hat to his head with a young cable. He meets a pedestrian whose hat is similarly attached.

The two bump, their hats fly off and they scramble for them. When hats finally are recovered each has the wrong one. This causes considerable embarrassment when the two cables go taut as the men separate. Anger soon takes the place of embarrassment when the cables become
